Sale Of Town Property.

Hughes & Swinebroad sold for W. I. Williams, his splendid residence on Lexington avenue, to V. A. Lear, for $4,550. It is known that Mr. Williams and his excellent family will move to Tulsa Oklahoma and their departure will be a source of deep regret to the entire community. All will join us in welcoming Mr. Lear and his good family to our city.

Stanford Court.

A fairly good crowd was on hand County Court day in Stanford although the cold rain made it unpleasant to be out. There was about 1200 cattle on the market and almost all them sold at three and one-half to five cents per pound according to the quality of the offerings. Nunneley's stock pens are considered about the best cattle market in the state.

Evidence of Progress.

The Danville Advocate says that juries in that county have lost their animosity to railroads, and a plaintiff must appear in court with a good case in order to win. The time was when one could get a judgement against a railroad no matter what the allegations of the petition or the proof. It is a sign of progress that we are getting away from that. Newspapers probably are most responsible, for they have educated the people away from the idea that the railroads are outlaws.

Beheaded.

About nine o'clock Sunday evening Jack Hall and John Rogers became involved in a dispute on Main street in Danville and ended the altercation by severing Rogers' head from his body with a large dirk. Both parties are negroes and it is said they had been gambling, drinking and quarreling during the evening. After the murder Sheriff Fox in company with several other citizens went to the home of Hall and after a search of the premises found him hiding in the garret. The examining trial was held Tuesday.

Announcement Extraordinary.

Caldwell College, of Danville, Ky., announce the engagement of Mischa Elman, celebrated Russian violinist, Josef Hofmann, world renowned pianist and Mme. Schumann-Heink, great dramatic contralto, for three separate recitals to be given in the College Gymnasium on February 6th, March 21st and April 13th, respectively, at 8:30 P. M. The season ticket sale is now on, reserved seats for the three performances begin given with season tickets. The price is $5.00 for the three concerts; the single admission price will be $2.00, $2.50 and $3.00 with no reserved seats. Reservation may be made by applying to Mr. Martin Reid, Jr., Director of the Music Department of Caldwell College, Danville, Ky.

Charming Lecture.

There has not been such a literary treat for Lancastrians in years as was enjoyed by a good sized audience at the Presbyterian church when Miss Nettie Hamilton Field Secretary of the Chautauqua Lyceum delivered her inimitable address, "The Evolution of Democracy shown in the Writings of the English Poet."

Miss Hamilton also greatly entertained the pupils of the Lancaster High School by her charming lecture on Woodworth. This gifted young woman was also enjoyed socially meeting a select intellectual circle at a six o'clock dinner given by Misses Martha and Helen Gill, and also being entertained at a sumptuous repast in the home of Mrs. F. P. Frisbie.

Big Day For Old Soldiers.

The big pot was put into the little one last Friday and the Old Soldiers enjoyed themselves to the fullest at the home of Thomp M. Arnold on the Lexington pike. Never before was a better dinner prepared and the "Old Boys" had a big day discussing old times in their pleasant manners and telling of experiences that the younger generation have never or ever will know. Besides Mr. Arnold's family the following Old Soldiers were present:

Capt. John G. Doty, age 82; Ezekiel Norman, age 75; Rev. G. W. Thompson, age 74; J. H. Arnold, age 72; W. G. Dunn, age 72; T. M. Arnold, age 72; I. M. Myers, age 71; Jerone Tinsley, age 71; Capt. J. A. Doty, age 70; B. M. Lear, age 70; R. B. Denton, age 68; Homer Tinsley, age 67; J. W. Royston, age 66.

The bid law was out Nov. 15th. Quite a number of people have been wasting ammunition.

The Peerless Princess will appear at the Court House Tuesday evening at 8 p. m., reserved seats at McRoberts Drug store.

The ladies of the Presbyterian church will have an exchange at Mr. E. W. Harris store room Tuesday Nov. 22 beginning at 10 o'clock A. M. 11-11-21.

Burton Vance.

(Louisville Times.)

It is the talk among people who are in a position to know that neither Homer Batson nor Robert Bingham would accept the appointment to the vacancy caused by the election of Judge Shackelford Miller to the Court of Appeals.

Mr. Batson's law practice is said to be of such proportions that he would not care to surrender it for a judgeship of one year, with the possible change of being elected for four additional years. Mr. Bingham is also a member of a flourishing law firm, with no desire for a one-year judgeship.

This leaves Burton Vance, former law partner of Gov. Wilson, with a clear field. There are some who say that Gov. Wilson may appoint Mr. Bingham, who will decline the honor, which then will go to Mr. Vance.

Price.

Dr. A. D. Price, one of the best known physicians of Central Kentucky, and one of the most esteemed citizens of Mercer county, died at his home in Harrodsburg at 7:30 o'clock Friday night of a complication of diseases. He was in the seventieth year of his age and was a native of Mercer County and had spent all of his life there. He had been practicing medicine in Harrodsburg since his graduation.

Dr. Price had for many years been a member of the First Presbyterian church in Harrodsburg and was a member of the Danville Chapter in Masonry.

The funeral took place Sunday afternoon, interment in the Spring Hill Cemetery of Harrodsburg. The Masons had charge of the services at the grave. Doctor's Burnett, Kinnaird and Mr. J. W. Elmore attended the funeral.

Novel Scheme.

A despatch from Tacoma Wash., has the following to say: Not satisfied with resting on her laurels as one of the very prettiest girls in Tacoma, Miss Lavone Livingstone, who is twenty years old, has made an announcement which places her in the front rank of philanthropists. Basing her action on the assumption that there are at least 10,000 men in the United States each of whom would be willing to be married if he could get a wife for $1, Miss Livingstone has arranged a "chance marriage" for the 10,000 for the not exorbitant price of $1 each.

Having lived in Virginia and in Petoskey, Mich., before coming to Tacoma, Miss Livingstone says she knows enough about men to feel sure that 10,000 of them are willing to give $1 for a chance on a happy home. If an acceptable candidate gets her she will take her and $5,000. If the selection is so ungalant as to decline to marry he will forfeit the $5,000 he might have with the his "bride." On the other hand, if he is not up to the plans and specifications favored by Miss Livingstone, she thanks release from the agreement for $5,000 will be a bargain and she will forfeit her $5,000 and let the mango out and pick his own wife.

Fox Hunt.

The National Fox Hunters' Association will hold its seventeenth annual field trials and third annual bench show at a meeting which will begin Friday Nov. 18th, at Crab Orchard Springs. The meetings will not only be attended by fox hunters from all parts of the United States, but will be a notable social affair and will be attended by many of the most prominent society people of the country. Mr. and Mrs. Owen Tyler will chaperon a party from Louisville; Gen. Roger D. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Misses Marion and Kathleen Mulligan and Miss Fannie Reed will be among those from Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Greenleaf will bring a party of young people from Richmond; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Woodridge will head a group of young men and women from Versailles, and parties from Boston, New York, Washington, Philadelphia, and other Eastern cities will also be in attendance.

Most all the fox hunters of old Garrard will be on hand including the Walker's of the Paint Lick section, who have some of the best dogs in the world.

The Derby comes off Friday, the Bench Show Saturday and the all age stake starts Tuesday and will probably last all week.

ANNOUNCEMENTS For Circuit Judge

We are authorized to announce Hon. Charles A. Hardin, a candidate for Judge of the Thirteenth Judicial District, at the November election, 1911, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

The Turning Of The Tide.

During the last dozen years we have seen the influence of that class of great corporations that look for favoritism in Federal legislation to increase their earnings steadily grow says the Kentucky State Journal. And as it has gained in its hold upon the party in power it has grown in boldness and insolence. Only a few years since Mr. Lippett, of the cotton goods combine, who is slated to succeed Aldrich in the Senate, boasted before a committee of Congress that he wrote the cotton scheduled in the Dingley bill, and so common had such things become that this remarkable statement created only a very mild sensation. The Democratic leaders raised their voices in protest against the infamy of the thing, but they were promptly branded either as "doctrinaires" or "anarchists." Continued acquiescence in this character of evil so benumbed the public conscience that the spectacle of a President of the United States sending for the heads of the Trusts and asking them to raise a corruption fund to secure his own re-election was looked on with easy complacency by a large percentage of the people. Following this Aldrich and Guggenheim unblushingly raised the tariff on manufactured rubber for the benefit of the Rubber Trust in which they held millions of dollars of stock. And as an evidence that even this was not regarded by the party in power as a crime we find President Taft, after all this had happened, praising Aldrich as a statesman.

The situation had become not only alarming but discouraging to those who had never ceased to denounce the shame and horror of it all. But just at a time when the picture looked darkest the American people seemed to be, in realizing the enormity of the dangers that surrounded them, and here and there an occasional hopeful sign appeared. Two or three special elections for Congress showed those who had borne the heat and burden of the long fight for the people's rights that they could at last expect some help from the people themselves. With this encouragement the fight was renewed all along the line; the citadels of corruption, masquerading under the name of "protection" were stormed; the people stopped to analyze a certain piece of hero-worshiping they had been engaged in, stared a few plain facts in the face, laughed at their own stupidity in the past, and then proceeded to tear the lion's skin from the donkey whose imitation of roar had so long deceived them—and the tide had turned.

No man can say how long the people will remember the lesson they have learned at so great a cost, but they have at least learned it, and learned it well, and this is a tremendous gain. Certainly, for a while at least, we shall remember that this is the people's government, and that they can run it when they wish to do so.

Judge Batson.

We have heard a great many persons say that Mr. Bingham the defeated republican candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, ran a remarkable race against such a good man as Judge Shackelford Miller. One way to account for this race is that Judge Homer W. Batson, one of the very best and smartest lawyers in the whole city of Louisville was chairman of the republican campaign committee, and through his capable management and hard work, Mr. Bingham ran a much better race than if he had been without such an efficient chairman and organizer. The Louisville Times has the following to say along this line:

"Former Circuit Judge Homer W. Batson was the chairman of the Republican Campaign Committee and Robert W. Bingham, the Republican nominee for Judge of the Court of Appeals, was an aggressive fighter. Undoubtedly they were the leading spirits in making the organization. Democrats are giving them and their associates due credit. Judge Batson has always been known to be an exceedingly able man but his cleverness along lines of organization was not suspected. As a campaigner the Democrats say he has D. W. Farrington, Charles L. Scholl and the others 'lashed to the mast,' and that he is in a class by himself, so far as local Republicans are concerned. The quietness, smoothness and silence in which the Republican campaign was conducted reminded the 'older heads' of the methods of George D. Todd and Charles E. Sapp back in the olden days when that pair was such a terror to the Democrats." Along this line the Evening Post has the following to say: "Judge Batson's work was confined to the task of organization, and those manifold duties fall upon a chairman of a campaign committee in a hard-fought contest. The Evening Post has seen many chairmen in anti-machine fights in Louisville, and never a stronger more sagacious, more tireless leader than Judge Batson. He gave up weeks of his time to the work, he supervised the work of every committee; he harmonized factions; he caused old feuds to be forgotten; at every stage of the canvass he showed ability, courage and energy."

Republican Papers Against Seating Powers

Editor J. W. Stevenson, of the Republican Mountain Echo, published at Taylor's capital of Kentucky,—that is to say, London,—calls loudly upon Congress to refuse to permit Caleb Powers to sit in the august body. He says that he believed he was guilty of conspiracy in the foulest, most damnable, most heinous, most diabolical crime that ever darkened Kentucky's history, and therefore, if he understands the letter of the law, guilty of murder, and worthy to be executed for the commission of the dastardly crime, instead of sitting in the seat of the mighty, adding that a man who has been three times convicted of a dastardly crime and never acquitted thereof is not fit to represent the splendid citizenship of the mountains in any capacity; that the little innocent children should not have this stigma placed upon them; that they should not be made to look back when they have reached maturity and be made to blush at having such a representative.

Editor Stevenson says he has given the matter much thought and feels that he has arrived at a conclusion both certain and right that the high-minded body of lawmakers, when they assemble in Washington on March fourth next, should refuse to seat Powers and thus save the district, and save the stigma of being represented by a man who had been thrice convicted of conspiracy in the murder of a fellow mortal and never acquitted. Most of the good democrats and a great many republicans agree with Editor Stevenson. Caleb Powers hopes may yet be in vain.

Breaks Silence.

The following statement by Theodore Roosevelt, his first comment since the recent elections, will appear in the forthcoming issue of the magazine with which he is connected: "On every hand, personally and by correspondence, I have been asked to make a statement regarding the election. So far as I am concerned, I have nothing whatever to add to or take away from the declaration of principles which I have made in the Ostracism speech or elsewhere, east and west during the past three months. The fight for progressive popular government has merely begun and will certainly go on to a triumphant conclusion in spite of initial checks and irrespective of the personal success or failure of individual leaders."

Many persons feel offended because their comings and goings are not mentioned while those of others are, and wonder what the matter can be. The explanation of the matter is that the editor means to be impartial, but some escape mention. The likes and dislikes of an editor have nothing to do with it, and while it is not pretended that the editor is more than human he knows that the success of his paper depends on its fairness and impartiality to all. It is the best way always when a notice is desired to mention it to the editor, or communicate through the post office. No one feels worse about any seeming neglect or partial performance of duty than the editor himself.

Having enjoyed our rooster week, we are now looking forward to turkey.

Civic Notes.

It will no doubt be of some interest to know that the Woman's Club has recently planted twenty trees in our town. The locations selected are along the streets where shade is most needed and several within the school grounds. This is but the beginning of a plan that promises to be a pleasure to the people and a pride to the club. A neighboring city's club has proposed that the club at Lancaster meet it half way with a continuous line of the beautiful Tulip Poplars, the tree selected by the Federal club of Kentucky for street and wayside planting.

The development of the Woman's Clubs in scope activity and efficiency is remarkable. Indeed it is the most potent factor in the altruistic movement of the age. It is a sort of spiritual evolution in which small and personal effort is changed into a great and civic force. The wisdom of the ages has found that it is only what one gives away, that one ever really possesses; and the Woman's Clubs have proven it again. To the one who is the means of bringing cleanliness and order out of the dirt and confusion in her town, or by saving some natural beauty or historic landmark from destruction, acquires a poise, a security, a knowledge of her capability that strengthens the fiber of her life, and will become a valued asset to the race.

The Woman's Clubs are beginning to be a recognized force—a civic power. It was the New Jersey Federation that saved the Palisades. And it was the effort of the general federation that passed the pure food bill. The clubs that have come to "believe in doing rather than Dante, in being rather than Browning, find in civic labor a field close at hand and one that cries out to be filled. Many miles of dusty highways to be shaded, many trees to be planted.

Honest Administration.

John A. Dix, the Governor-elect, at his first public appearance since his victory at the polls pledged himself to an honest administration untouched by any influence but his duty to the whole people. His first problem, he said, would be administrative reforms and retrenchment in expenses.

He said in part: "Our party has taken upon itself a great responsibility, and if we are to bear well that responsibility and perform well the duties of State administration it can be only by the devotion of counsel and co-operation of all good citizens."

"One of the first problems will be reform in the administration of affairs in this state. Alongside, and quite as important, will be retrenchment, that we may restore again the conditions under which a public dollar shall have as much purchasing power as a private dollar."

Charmed With High Bridge.

Dr. Ira Remsen, M. D. Ph. D. and L. L. D. President of Johns Hopkins University, of Baltimore, after addressing the students of Central University in Danville Friday afternoon, was motored with a party of prominent citizens to High Bridge, which spans the Kentucky river on the Q. & C. Route, and thence to the Old Shakertown and to Harrodsburg, the oldest town in the State. Dr. Remsen, who has traveled in all parts of the civilized world, declared the scenery around High Bridge to be unsurpassed by the most picturesque section of Switzerland and other lands noted for grand natural scenic pictures. Dr. Remsen too, was delighted with old Shakertown, only a short distance away from the bridge and with historic Harrodsburg. Not in all his travels had Dr. Remsen seen anything quite so wonderful as the High Bridge itself and he viewed it with scrutiny and great interest. He said that High Bridge is one of Kentucky's achievements that has given her international prestige. In the party with Dr. Remsen were Dr. F. W. Hilt, president of Central University; Dr. John C. Acheson, president of Caldwell College; Dr. Garnett Ryland, professor of Chemistry in Georgetown College; Dr. Friend Clarke, professor of Chemistry in Central University; Dr. J. R. Cowan of Danville; Mr. R. M. Trimble and Mr. Floyd Frazier, of Mt. Sterling, and Mr. Floyd Laswell, of Owensboro.
